

Fritzie Fritzshall discusses how she survived Auschwitz; her prewar family life; being liberated from a death march; daily life after liberation; being smuggled out of Communist Germany; immigrating to the United States; the fate of her family members; being reunited with her family; her life in Chicago; meeting her husband; how she started speaking publicly about the Holocaust; her views on survivors guilt; her feelings about Germany and Germans; her views on Israel; and her beliefs about Dr. Mengele's death.