

02_0067.doc Summary

Frieda Noga discusses growing up in Michaelnbad, Austria prior to World War II; the presence of the Nazi party; her family's use of Polish laborers on their farm; falling in love with a Polish laborer; getting arrested and sent to Ravensbrück; life in the camp; being released and reuniting with her family; getting married and having children; immigrating to the United States on the ship Marine Jumper; daily life in New York; becoming a United States citizen; buying a farm; starting a monument business; going back to visit Austria; her family; and how the memory of her experiences during the Holocaust have affected her daily life.