

Fred Bachner discusses his experience as a prisoner in Auschwitz; his death march out of Auschwitz; finding his brother near Dachau; his liberation by American forces; how he was treated under the American occupation; the physical attacks on Jewish Kapos in Munich; living in a Nazi's house; reuniting with his father; immigrating to the United States; religion; his life in New York; how the Holocaust affected his identity and sense of well being; being drafted into the Army; meeting his wife and getting married; his children and grandchildren; going back to Auschwitz; taking his family to Germany and Poland; speaking about the Holocaust to school children in Germany; traveling to Israel; anti-Semitism; and the Civil Rights movement.